

Review of: "An experience of global higher education and university autonomy in Viet Nam: A case study of Ton Duc Thang University in Ho Chi Minh City"

Nahla Moussa¹

¹ American University in the Emirates

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Dear authors,

Thank you for the effort you put to express this interesting idea of higher education globalization and some related issues such as cultural and social aspects. The introduction is well-explained to present a concept of the internationalization in higher education setting in Vietnam. The paper in its current status looks not ready for publishing for some reasons that will be listed here for authors consideration.

- 1- The article is not well-organized; the main sections are missing such as theoretical framework on which authors are building their hypotheses.
- 2- There is no section to explain the Methods that researchers followed for data collection and adhering to research ethics.
- 3- The structure of case study is missing
- 4- There is no "findings" section to show what should be found such as the content that was produced by participants
- 5- The analysis method is like thematic analysis or content analysis is not existing, I would recommend the authors to go beyond the simple descriptive statistics that are posted in the article to make it a visible paper.
- 6- In the discussion, authors should explain how other higher education institutions can benefit from this case of Vietnamize university in other words, show the generalizability of this study.