Review of: "Emotional Intelligence and Cybervictimization: Stratified Multilevel Analysis With Synthetic Data"

Sara Kashefian-Naeeini[1]

1 Shiraz University of Medical Sciences

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The work is an interesting one and tackles a novel and interesting topic. One of the strong points is that previous studies on this topic are few and scant in number.

In the discussion section, the author(s) can compare and contrast their results with some more previous studies and find similar and different patterns in their results compared with those of others.

It is suggested that a conclusion section be added before references to summarize the key findings and to put into focus the implications of the findings together with their potential influence on the field.

On the whole, this study warrants reading and has the novelty which is needed to add knowledge to the field.