The article provides an important insight on the effect and barriers to effective community development in Malawi. The article could be strengthened by a more succinct methodology statement where the sampling approach, application of survey, survey design and analytical methods for working with the findings, as well as link between methods(eg. any qualitative approach or systematic reviews etc used to identify factors used within your survey) could be precisely described in relation to the aims. The repeatability of the work and the ability to generalise (or not) findings should also be further explained.
