

Review of: "Sectoral GDP and Tax Revenue: a Panel Data Analysis"

Elchin Suleymanov¹

¹ Baku Engineering University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The study identifies key issues regarding environmental factors for the sustainable development and investment goals. Some specific issues should be improved. The description of the study context , importance of the study is relatively good, the study methods and data are clearly described, and the results are summarised in an acceptable manner.

More strategies should be given at the end of the abstract part based on the analysis results

More information should be given about the limitations and future Research directions in the conclusion part.

The contribution of the manuscript should be explained more in the conclusion.

I suggest minor English language editing and avoiding long complex sentences that go apart from main idea.