

Review of: "Who Is Afraid of COVID-19: An Inherited Approach for the Future of EFL"

Natália Gomes¹

¹ Instituto Politécnico da Guarda

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

I appreciate the choice of topic; it's quite interesting and very important in the field of teaching!

However, there are some areas that could be further explored, or additional details that could enhance the overall article. Consider delving into the theoretical state of the art or providing more context on the field of coping to make the content more comprehensive. It is extremely necessary that the author clearly define the objectives and the conclusion, which seems very vague, of this study. Recent authors and studies should also be presented.

The abstract is, in my opinion, incomplete.

Too many concepts are present throughout the article without any connection or a true explanation and relation to the topic of the article.

This would not only strengthen your argument but also provide a more well-rounded view of the subject.

The structure and the topics should be reorganized according to the main objective and according to a methodology.

- Several authors are missing in the reference section.
- English should be improved.

Overall, a great start, and with more detail and some structure changes, it could be published.