

Review of: "American Mission in Afghanistan: Geopolitical Interests, Strategies and Reasons of Failure"

Dr Ejaz Hussain¹

¹ Lahore School of Economics

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

There are serious issues with this article. One, the title generates ambiguity with reference to "American mission in Afghanistan"? What is the time-frame/context ? What is meant by mission? Does it mean US diplomacy in Afghanistan or ?

Two, there are no research questions. How can one analyze a problem without raising questions? Three, there is no literature review at all. Four, There is no theory and methodology. Five, lots of irrelevant details are provided on Central Asia whereas the paper's focus domain should be Afghanistan. Last but not least, Biden Administration is not discussed in the final section- which means even empirically the paper is not updated. Besides, there are length paragraphs sans any references (i.e., see page 3 and 11).

In its current shape, this paper falls short of scientific standards to be published as an academic contribution.