Thank you for the opportunity to review this draft .

1. The paper is informative and useful
2. It creates awareness about important an issue of competitive water use , growing water scarcity and how to address associated challenges balancing between enforcement (rule-based control) and compliance (individual/institutional decision based on understanding the growing water resource constraints).
3. The introduction section promises a global review of literature on water resources management, but that is not evident on the rest of the paper
4. A conceptual framework to differentiate the type of water resource that is the focus of this research is needed. It is potable water from an open water source like shared rivers, Lakes.. or liquid water in build infrastructure like that case of urban piped water?
5. The research objectives can be re-examined against the set research questions so that each question can be seen to address an objective(s)

Thank you.
