

Review of: "Reasons for diagnostic delays in Bipolar Disorder: Systematic review and narrative synthesis"

Luca Steardo¹

¹ Sapienza University of Rome

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This is an interesting review regarding a significant issue affecting individuals with bipolar disorder: the delay in diagnosis. Shedding light on such a complex and widespread problem undoubtedly contributes to both science and literature, providing greater insights into this field. The methodology is appropriate, and the article is written in good English. I highly recommend its publication.