

Open Peer Review on Qeios

Syringocystadenoma papilliferum

INSERM

Source

INSERM. (1999). Orphanet: an online rare disease and orphan drug data base.

Syringocystadenoma papilliferum. ORPHA:840

Syringocystadenoma papilliferum (SCAP) is a rare non-malignant adnexal sweat gland neoplasm characterized by asymptomatic, skin-colored to pink papules or plaques with a highly variable appearance, most commonly in the head and neck area.