Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

My first recommendation is to revise language throughoutly. For instance, starting a paragraph with "first of all" is not the most appropiate in an academic article. Avoiding acronyms even if these refer to United Arab Emirates is recommended. Avoid subjective adjectives like long period. Instead, refer to the specific period.

My second recommendation is about the way conclusions and findings are included in the text. For instance, when data are included, appropriate reference should be also considered (according to...). Findings should be appropiately justified and explained (The reasons for the growth of the UAE population are an increase... or The following measures are among the most effective ones...Why?)

My third recommendation is about the contribution of this article. The abstract is too short and too succinct and does not mention how it contributes to existing work
