In the study entitled "Tourists' Activities and their Impacts on Chinhoyi Caves Heritage Site, Zimbabwe", the introduction section is well prepared and the subject is set out in detail. Increasing the number of participants (staff) specified in the Method section will ensure that more valid and reliable information is provided. In the Findings section, it is necessary to include visuals about the damage caused to the Chinhoyi Caves. More concrete proposals should be included on measures to prevent damage to the heritage located in these regions. These recommendations should be aimed directly at protecting the Chinhoyi Caves. By adding the discussion section, it can be compared with the results obtained in other regions. All the references given should be used in the study.
