The authors have prepared a manuscript entitled 'Aligning Government Initiatives with Sustainable Development Goals: A Village-Level Mapping in India' to demonstrate the relationship between the various development and welfare schemes and the SDGs at the village level in India.

The authors have done very good work. There are few points which require in-depth clarity from the author(s).

1. A more detailed and proper justification is required for choosing the Emped village as the study area.
2. Detail the sampling technique: how were the households selected? Justify the sample size statistically.
3. Can the enlistment of Government schemes and initiatives be discussed in line with SDG indicators?
4. Separate discussion and conclusion will help the readers understand more clearly.
