

Review of: "Corruption in the medical field: Facts from Nigeria"

Jose Francisco Parodi¹

¹ University of San Martin de Porres (USMP)

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The title describes the essence of the article appropriately. The resume contains the essential information from each section of the article. The interests of the worker should be clearly stated.

The study's objective is clearly defined, and the context is explained in context.

The implemented methods are suitable for achieving the work objective.

The methods are sufficiently clear to be able to replicate the study

The results presented are consistent with the planned objectives.

The data obtained must be interpreted correctly. The meaning of the results is explained.

The conclusions are based on the study's results and exemplify how technology (use of big data) can serve public health.

AUTHORS may mention if an ethics committee approved the questionnaire. Also, you have to include a paragraph about recognizing and describing the study's limitations.