Review

In the reviewing article we trace all the stages of the higher education evolution in Tamil Nadu. the research question is not quite clear in the text, that's why it is difficult to follow the results of the innovation implementation in the scope of the whole world.

The whole idea of the evolution is very interesting, but, I think it would be more representative if readers can learn how these innovations influence the system of education (the quality of the educational programs, its competitiveness, the educational results nowadays).

Tamil Nadu's journey of transforming higher education from traditional to innovative can be traced according the measures of innovations. It would be very useful and interesting to see need-based curriculum to evaluate the right paths of all the described evolution.
