Hopefully my comment can improve your paper:

1. The title is "A Comprehensive Literature Review". You should reference this in the other section. Mention in abstract and explain more detail in the method section.
2. Your paper don't have method section. Most of journal needs this section. Even though this is a review paper, you can explain more about "how you organize the paper" "how you collect the data", "what kind of data", "how you select the data", and so on.
3. In the abstract you can directly mention recommendations for better veterinary service for small holder farmers. Desktop review is not a standard method.
4. Page 8, paragraph 3 and fort. This is your analysis? Or if you took from references, you should put the references.
5. Some comments for the conclusion section: 1) You don't need to put reference (s) in this section. This section is to summarize the paper findings. 2) It is paper to make it thorough, with 1-2 paragraph.
6. References is good, you can complete some uncomplete references. If also can complete them with DOI number. Some journals require this.
