

Review of: "The Ancient Indian Knowledge System and the Medical Sciences"

Baburam Marasini

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article is interesting, and tries to highlight the ancient knowledge on health and medicine. My suggestions are that the title needs to be changed as it describes only the knowledge related to Ayurveda only, while the title says India or whole India and in this article the ancient knowledge in north east India, north west India and south India not included. The author either should limit the knowledge on Ayurveda medicine only or include the knowledge of India as a whole. There are coherence issues also e.g. there is issue of causation of disease and suddenly one sentence of ultraviolet has been included.