Thank you for inviting me to review the manuscript entitled: 'The Parental Role in Child Sexuality: A Phenomenological Study'. The topic is very interesting. I appreciate the authors' efforts. There is a very important content in the article. However, the following suggestions might improve the manuscript: It is better to reorganize the current structure in line with the scientific writings. The introduction suffers from too many subjects, and the existing gap and the necessity of the research have not been well expressed. Also, the existing literature in this field is not mentioned. The methods and the final themes must be written more clearly. Reorganizing the discussion sections and updating the references is recommended.

Best regards
