In the abstract, you should add the method you used to analyze your research, and please add your recommendations for further research. It can be better if you add the year to your research's title. Although your literature review is enough, I think you can add the data, maybe in a table, diagram, or chart, so we as readers will be interested when we read your article. Last but not least, you should add the research method to your article (put it after the introduction) so that we know how you analyzed your research.
