

Review of: "A Case Study of the Management Information System in the Coffee Industry in SW Ethiopia"

Wahid Hamad<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Institute of Social Work

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

A: Background Information

The background information is too general, and it does not capture the current situation of the coffee Industry in SW Ethiopia. To make it sound logical to the reader, please include the following:

1. Includes the current situation of the coffee industry in the study area, which can direct you to the identification of the study problem.
2. The study aim has been stated in the abstract but not in your study's background information. It is very important to address the study's aim and object at the beginning instead of leaving the readers to determine themselves.

B: Methods used

The author(s) describe the methods in the Abstract, which is good, however, still detailed information is required to elaborate in detail on the methods and state why it is important to use the selected methods. This will increase the validity of the study and impact the body of literature.

C: Before the conclusion

Here need to consider two issues.

1. What is/are the method(s) used to analyze the obtained information? It should be very clear to the reader the method used or its steps where necessary that took you to the conclusion.
2. Need to add two paragraphs A: A detailed description of the methods used for data analyses. B: a short description that indicates the discussion of the results obtained after analysis.