

Review of: "A Study for Estimation of Greenhouse Gas Emissions of Cotton in Central Greece"

chinnathambi Ravikumar¹

¹ Annamalai University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The selection of problem by the author quite fit for addressing the relevant issues to the climate change at present. The author needs to consider some of the suggestions for betterment of this article. The author may pay attention to provide information regarding the exact issues which relevant to the problem chosen in the Introduction part. Methodology part needs a little bit more clarity. Presentation of data and graphical representations are good enough. The author may discuss the determinants by substantiate the data presentation. The discussion part abruptly missing.

Summary of review: The suggestions carried out by the author may improve the novelty and might be a readers friendly. The paper can be published with major revise in terms of language.