

Review of: "Post-Conflict Reconstruction: How Social Identity Change Informs our Understanding of the Ukrainian Experience of Forced Migration"

Safa Al Husban¹

¹ Al al-Bayt University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The topic is original and attractive, and the writing and structure of the research paper are clear and cohesive. The paper makes a significant contribution to the field of psycho-social well-being of refugees in hosting communities worldwide. All the needed illustrations are available regarding the topic and subtopics, as well as the method. The objectives of the study were clearly stated, the literature review was suitable and sufficient, the method was excellent, while the sample was limited. Additionally, as the research followed a qualitative research method and thematic analysis, there is a need to change the term "examines" in the introduction to the term "explores. The results were interpreted clearly, and the references citation is up to date, enough, and high quality. I recommend accepting the paper for publication.