

Review of: "How Competent are Health Professionals in Delivering Nutrition Education? A Cross-Sectional Study in Ebonyi State, Nigeria"

Samreen Sadaf Khan

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The paper is well-written with good findings that will add to the existing knowledge. The paper reports findings that are promising in the field of nutrition. The background information is well supported by a literature search and clearly discusses the research question. The methodology is clear. However, if the paper could elaborate more on the inclusion and exclusion criteria for participant selection, that would be great. The results support the conclusion. The quality of figures and tables is good, and they are clear, readable, and complete. In table 2, there is a minor typo error; please check "Food container essential function."