Firstly I would like to thanks author of the manuscript for giving me opportunity to review this article. It was a great effort to work on latest issues and helping others to understand the problem further. Few suggestions from my side includes:

1. I would like to categorise this as a case series and draft the same in case series format instead of a article. As there is hardly few comparison with other research study data. I understand the limitations of availability of research articles on this topic and hence limitation of adequate research design as well.

2. In another case (i.e. research article ) it would be great to include more information regarding Target population, sampling techniques, inclusion / exclusion criteria, ethical justification ( as per my suggestion written consent would have been more appropriate), research tool, Method of data collection and analysis.

3. For Case series I would like to see more information about 1) aim and objectives 2) diagnostic criteria 3) treatment protocol.
