

Review of: "Extension and Revision of Monetary Policy Transmission Mechanisms and Their Impact on Domestic Real Investment in Nigeria: A Time Series Study from 1981 to 2015 by Lucky Anyike and Uzah Cheta Kingsley"

Sami Alajlani<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Higher Colleges of Technology

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The paper does not address the literature gap. The study lacks a clear objective and research question. The literature study is not systematic, and it is not based on topics specifically relevant to Pakistan. It appears to be a simple collection of abstracts from different studies. Policy implications should clearly indicate which actions policymakers should take. Structural shocks are not considered in the methodology.