Thank you, Dr Clive. The paper looks much improved and is an interesting piece of work. It provides an in-depth insight on your personal perspective and experience. As you have already improvised some areas of this article, a brief statement on the methods i.e. how you collected the data, and how you analysed it would be appreciated from a scientific write-up perspective. So goes for an acknowledgement of the strength and limitations of the study briefly at the end of the paper. I appreciate your effort again and wish you all the best.
