The article is well-written, but needs to add the following headings:

1. The pharmacological activities mentioned are quite limited; the authors must cover maximum pharmacological studies.
2. The author has mentioned the phytoconstituents in different parts of the plants, but they should also be classified as per the name of the constituents such as alkaloids, glycosides, saponins, terpenes.
3. To make the review much more effective, the author must add the novel formulations developed from these plants.
