

Review of: "Thermal Comfort Temperature Evaluation in Hospital Wards for Patient Safety and Climate Change Sustainability"

Esam M.H. Ismaeil<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> King Faisal University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The field of research is good and more studies are required in this field, but the research lacks some important points:

- 1- The summary needs to explain the methodology and results accurately
- 2- The methodology requires precise clarification of the measurement tools and everything related.
- 3- The results need to be supported by results from using the software