The manuscript deals with an important problem and proposes integrated watershed management as a way of rationally tackling this issue. I recommend three points for revision of the manuscript: greater objectivity in the writing through a more succinct text and supported by summary figures; insertion of a set of photos that exemplify the main problems of inadequate management, as well as illustrations with examples of positive results of adequate management; review of more recent studies in addition to the references cited, especially in points referenced excessively by Koohafkan and Stewart, 2008 and Suhas et al., 2011 (the latter absent in the references).
