The research was conducted during the pandemic and thus post pandemic there will a big difference in terms of numbers. If the same research is done in post covid era then the numbers will be very different. Hence its uncertain as how much this research will help in concluding or advancing any other research or outcomes in current developing countries is doubtful. The literature review should contain references of recent articles. In multiple cases its observed that very old examples are cited. The correlation between investment policy and thriving of SMEs in developing economies is not very clear. An alternate method should had been sited as a comparative study. A discussion on the drawbacks of this method can be added further. Explanation on the outcomes in Tables 4-6 and its significance should had been elaborated further. It appears that certain steps are executed one after another to determine the outcome without analysis of all the data.
