

Review of: "“Correlation does not Imply Causation”, while Psychotropic Drugs do cause Neurochemical Imbalances and Dysfunction of Neurotransmission"

Manorama Patri

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Thanks for thinking in a different way about the application of psychotropic drugs. But, in the recent scenario, due to advancement in artificial intelligence in medical sciences, it needs close and cross-disciplinary collaboration from the AI and medical communities for the treatment of diseases. This review article has to show more details about mental health issues and their relationship with neurochemical changes before drawing a conclusion like “Correlation does not imply causation.”