

Review of: "Boring Language Is Constraining the Impact of Climate Science"

Kerstin Wydra<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Fachhochschule Erfurt

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article tackles an important problem, but the argumentation is partly not right, not always logical, often not well formulated, and therefore does not help much to bring the scientific community forward. The style is not suitable for a scientific paper, but more for an essay in a public journal. Though, it also contains valuable thoughts and conclusions, and some good literature on the subject. Thus, this theme should be taken up in a different form.