

Review of: "Pain Assessment and Management in Children at Lusaka Children's Hospital: Nurses' Experiences - A Qualitative Study"

Barbara Lyn Galvez¹

¹ Silliman University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Overall Feedback:

- The article's use of references from relevant research articles adds credibility to the study's findings and recommendations.
- Including more details about the research methodology, such as the number of participants in each focus group and demographic information, could provide a more comprehensive understanding of the study.
- Consider providing a brief mention of the study's limitations, such as potential biases or generalizability issues, to acknowledge the scope of the research.

In general, the article offers valuable insights into the challenges faced by nurses in pediatric pain management and proposes practical solutions to enhance the quality of care provided. With some minor adjustments and clarifications, the article could make an impactful contribution to the field of pediatric healthcare.