

Review of: "A Case for Nature in Long-Haul Space Exploration"

Janet Tinoco¹

¹ Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

It is a well-written, but brief, article. For those of us who are not familiar with the term, biophilic, I suggest a definition at first use in the paper. I, like some of the other reviewers, expected more in terms of research, and I also suspect that astronaut exposure to nature scenes already occurs in the ISS. Still, the article did make me think and I appreciated it.