

Open Peer Review on Qeios

Congenital Complete Atrioventricular Block

National Cancer Institute

Source

National Cancer Institute. Congenital Complete Atrioventricular Block. NCI Thesaurus. Code C99265.

A disorder characterized by an electrocardiographic finding of a complete atrioventricular block that manifests during fetal life or soon after birth. It may be isolated or associated with other congenital heart defects. Isolated congenital complete atrioventricular block may be associated with maternal connective tissue disorders.