

Review of: "Weathering changes – livelihood adaptation to weather shocks in rural India by disadvantaged social groups"

Nabila Khurshid<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> COMSATS University Islamabad

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

I appreciate the chance to evaluate the article. It presents engaging research that appears to make a valuable contribution to the existing literature. The article offers an intriguing portrayal of India's promising economic prospects and its associated societal dynamics. However, a few specific points warrant attention:

- Title should be rephrased. It should be aligned with research objectives.
- Abstract should be expanded, including details about estimation techniques etc.
- Reference format should be correct throughout the paper.
- The introduction should be in succinct form. Remove subheadings of Research questions etc. pls follow the standard research article format.
- Add empirical literature on research topic.
-

The theoretical basis of choosing a relationship should be mentioned briefly.

-

Overall presentation of results is not up to the mark.

-

Conclusion is too long.