

Review of: "Public Health Assurance in the COVID-19 Era: Current Challenges and Future Prospects"

Hu Zhang¹

¹ China University of Political Science and Law

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This paper clearly presents the key factors of public health assurance, its challenges in the Covid-19 era and its future prospects by listing key points. However, the key issue of this paper is unclear. It cannot be seen what are Covid-19's exact and special effects on public health and what are the shortcoming of the current public health assurance. Accordingly, though the author points out the challenges and provides with recommendations on how to improve Public Health Assurance, we cannot learn what are the issues that may be improved by implementing such recommendations. This paper may be improved in the following three aspects:

1. The Abstract should be shorter and focuses on summarizing the challenges and future prospects of public health assurance in the Covid-19 era and provides with the author's conclusion briefly.
2. The author may add substance to the section Understanding public health and the need for public health assurance by elaborating Covid-19's exact and special effects on public health.
3. It would be better that the author explains more about the challenges and future prospects of public health assurance in the Covid-19 era and way forward, rather than briefly listing the key points.