Review of: "Challenges and Perspectives of Corporate Social Responsibility in Madagascar: An Overview of Research and a Strategy Model"

The study included more relevant references (e.g., Carroll's CSR Pyramid) and offers a good review of CSR, but still, it is very large and sometimes quite confusing. Therefore, I really recommend trimming the article in terms of fluidity and ease of reading. Make it more to the point, which is to present CSR in Madagascar and its companies, what the facts are, the challenges, and the limitations. Thus, you will provide a great contribution.
