First of all, I would like to thank the respected editor and the authors for their good work.

This manuscript discusses how the requirements of the Chi Mei Medical Center are satisfied with a software robot and presents a feasibility study for other centers to adopt this.

The authors may notice some notes:

1. The literature review is so weak and did not relate to highlight research gaps, which correspond with the objectives. The authors may add many papers to find the gaps in the research and compare their work with the previous studies.
2. According to the new literature review, the methodology will be more clear with details.
3. The main weakness in the manuscript is that the references are not enough. The authors need to add about 20 or more new references that make them more relative to the studies and methodology of the manuscript.

Thank you and best wishes with respect.
