Review of: "The Future of Malaysian SMEs in the Digital Economy"

Lentswe Mosweunyane[1]

1 Central University of Technology, Free State

Abstract: The abstract should provide a concise summary of the main points of the article. It currently contains repetitive language and does not clearly state the objectives and findings of the paper. Consider revising it to provide a clearer overview of the content.

Introduction: The introduction should provide more context and background information about the digital economy and its significance for SMEs. It should also include a clear thesis statement or research question to guide the reader.

Objectives and Questions: The objectives and questions listed in section 1.1 and 1.2 should be more specific and focused. Consider revising them to clearly outline the specific aspects of the digital economy and its impact on SMEs that will be explored in the paper.

Review of Literature: The literature review section should include a comprehensive review of relevant scholarly publications, government papers, and other reliable sources. It should also provide critical analysis and synthesis of the existing literature to support the arguments and claims made in the article.

Adoption of Digital Economy: The section on the adoption of the digital economy should provide more specific examples and data to illustrate the challenges faced by SMEs and the opportunities they can leverage. Consider including case studies or success stories to provide concrete evidence.

Benefits of Digital Economy: The benefits of the digital economy section should provide more specific examples and evidence to support the claims made. Consider including statistics, research findings, and real-world examples to demonstrate how SMEs can benefit from digital transformation.

Leveraging Digital Economy: The section on leveraging the digital economy should provide more practical and actionable strategies for SMEs to adopt and benefit from digital technologies. Consider providing step-by-step guidance and best practices for SMEs to follow.