Dear Editor in Chief,

I have gone through the paper.

1. The paper touches on an important subject. However, there is no justification for the paper. In other word, the author needs to properly conceptualise the problem clearly stating what necessitated this research or what gap the paper filled and why.
2. The paper needs to be properly formatted suitable for journal article (The paper is written in project report format).
3. The chapter format should be collapsed in to section (1. Introduction; covering research problem and objective research work, chapter 2. literature reviews, 3. methodology, 4 analysis and findings and the conclusion and perhaps 5 recommendations.
4. The Author needs to revisit the references to adopt a specific referencing style.

The Author needs to rework the entire paper to give it a proper journal paper structure. Most importantly, without a clear research gap or research problem, the paper would not have any justification.
