The review cites a large number of bioactivities assigned to S. nigrum extracts, but needs data organization. I suggest summarizing Section 3 in a single table, presenting, in each column, which part of the plant was used as an extract, in which concentration, which dosage was tested, and for how many days.

In sections 3 and 4, correlate the bioactivities to the responsible chemical compounds, as far as possible.

Throughout the text, check abbreviations of gender/species and italicize them.

Avoid using the acronyms adopted in the referenced work (e.g., AESNB, SNE, etc.).

Finally, a careful, grammatical revision of the text is necessary.
