

Review of: "The Residential Property Price Impact of Luas Investments"

Nadra Nait Amar

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The title of the article is: The Residential Property Price Impact of Luas Investments A very interesting topical issue. A very interesting article, according to the title. On reading the article, it does not follow the structure of a scientific article: IMRAD method. The introduction is too long. The state of the art is too detailed for a scientific article. It is preferable for the author to review the writing style of the article. It should be firm and objective. The statistical data is well supported by graphs. The bibliography should be revised in line with international standards.