Potential competing interests: The abstract of the article exhibits significant shortcomings in terms of methodology. Firstly, it is crucial to include information about the research methodology, including data collection and analysis methods, in the abstract. This would allow readers to gain a better understanding of how the study was conducted and the foundations upon which the conclusions were drawn. The absence of these essential details impairs the clarity and transparency of the article, which should be addressed to enhance the overall quality of the research. No potential competing interests to declare.
