

Review of: "Hasn't the time finally come for the establishment of a World Government?"

Andrea Micciché¹

¹ University of Catania

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

I congratulate the author for choosing a topic that is particularly timely and worthy of further study, especially following the outbreak of war between Russia and Ukraine and the renewed commitment of the Holy See. I join the comments of the other reviewers regarding the title and the structure of the paragraphs. Allow me only to suggest the expansion of the research on the aspects connected to the pontifical and conciliar magisterium regarding the maintenance of peace in the world, also in the light of the change of perspective of the “potestas indirecta in temporalibus” and the role of the Apostolic See as mediator of conflicts. I am referring above all to the documents of John Paul II and Benedict XVI, which concerned the integral development of the human person as a condition for a just world order (for example, the encyclicals Centesimus Annus or Caritas in Veritate).