This is a very good effort by the researcher, however, in my view, the introduction needs to be more elaborated along with the objective/aim/purpose of conducting this study. Secondly, I couldn't find any methodology section, though it's a literature review-based paper, still there are many techniques or approaches being used in literature-based papers. The addition of methodology can enhance the effect of the paper as it will describe the selection of articles being included in this study. Can be considered publishable after a minor revision.
