I would like to thank the authors for the efforts they are making to improve this manuscript. A few of my previous comments have been addressed. In my view, the manuscript needed a major revision including writing a better justification for the research study, improving the introduction/background and discussion sections. In its current state, the reason for conducting the research study is not compelling, the result section has repetitions including the use of a pie-chart, which in my opinion is adding very little value. The discussion should have some policy implications, the picture is not painted clearly.
