Dear author,

Thanks for the effort you made to conduct this interesting review. Here are my comments about the quality and efficiency of your work:

Abstract

1. I cannot find your results and discussion section. Is the article a 'proposal' one? If it is, mention it in the title.
2. "JBI": Use the full form of the name for the first time.

Participants

1. "Who may or may not present with health conditions (e.g., healthy older adults, cardiovascular disease patients, stroke patients)": You included a huge number of participants with huge heterogeneity and so on, leading to inconsistent results.

Outcomes

1. "Balance can be divided into can be divided into two types": Omit the duplicate words.
2. "Mini-BESTest": Use the full form for the first time.
3. "POMA-G": As above.

Type of study

1. "This systematic review will include randomized controlled trials that are fully accessible without charge": Are you serious?? So you should change the name of your article to "Systematic Review of Free Articles"!!! You should investigate all the available data no matter how hard it is and how much it costs if you want to conduct a valuable one. Try to purchase paid articles.
