

Open Peer Review on Qeios

Superparamagnetic Iron Oxide Magnetic Resonance Imaging

National Cancer Institute

Source

National Cancer Institute. Superparamagnetic Iron Oxide Magnetic Resonance Imaging.
NCI Thesaurus. Code C116461.

A magnetic resonance imaging technique that uses superparamagnetic iron oxide particles as a contrast agent to aid in the identification of multiple disorders, including atherosclerosis, blood-brain barrier dysfunction, and cancer.