The updated version of the article was posted by the authors the day after my review. On 27/12/2023, the authors uploaded the updated version, while my review was done on 26/12/2023. Given the short time gap in the current version of the article (which dates back to 27/12/2023), the authors did not have the practical time to make the suggested changes in my review. It has now been a month since my review, and the authors have not yet uploaded an updated version of the article. The current version indeed dates back to 27/12/2023, and none of the changes I recommended have been implemented.
