

Review of: "A Conceptual Review of Discontinuity in Urban Design: The Morphological and Ethical Dimensions"

Luciano Torres Tricárico<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Universidade do Vale do Itajaí (Univali)

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article has scientific importance by increasing the notion of "discontinuity" as a category of analysis for the area of knowledge of Urbanism and Urbanization. In this sense, the exemplifications were very well located to better understand the objective of the article.

However, the article must explain the research methodology, especially its character, material and procedures and method of evaluating the results collected. There would also be a necessary explanation of what is meant by meaning and significant for the theme of language.

The introduction should make more explicit the research problem, research question, hypothesis and justification of the study for the area of Urbanism and Urbanization.

Also in the introduction, there are sentences without proper theoretical foundation.

Figures 1, 2 and 7 may harm the explanation of the text.

The conclusion could answer why there is a relationship between the ethical and morphological dimensions, in order to point out future research.